

Abdalla meligy 2221189629

Hussian alajmi 2201116026

functional

- 1-The students shall access the system using username and password for the login, so the registered id must be accessed by the specific password in the database .
- 2- The system shall allow the students to register, add, the courses by searching in the database, after adding the course the database shall be updated.
- 3- The system shall allow the students to drop the courses if it is registered , after dropping the course the database shall be updated.
- 4-the system shall allow the administrators to view the number of registered students in the courses using the database of the system.

Non-functional

- 1-The system should be secure by username and password and the data shall be encrypted (security)
- 2-The system should handle large number of students (capacity)
- 3- The system should be easy to use with drop down menu (usability)

e-commerce website

functional

- 1-The customer shall register in the system using username and password for the login, so the registered username must be accessed by the specific password in the database .
- 2-The customer shall be able to search a product by name in the website using the database .
- 3--The website shall allow the administrators to manage orders and to view and update the product availability in the database.

Non-functional

- 1-The website should be secure by username and password and the data shall be encrypted (security)
- 2-The website should handle large number of customers (capacity)
- 3- The system should be easy to use with drop down menu(usability)